Synoptic Project

"My sun sets to rise again." - Robert Browning

To illustrate this, I intend on creating a thought provoking two dimensional animation of the death of an animal and rebirth of a fetus.

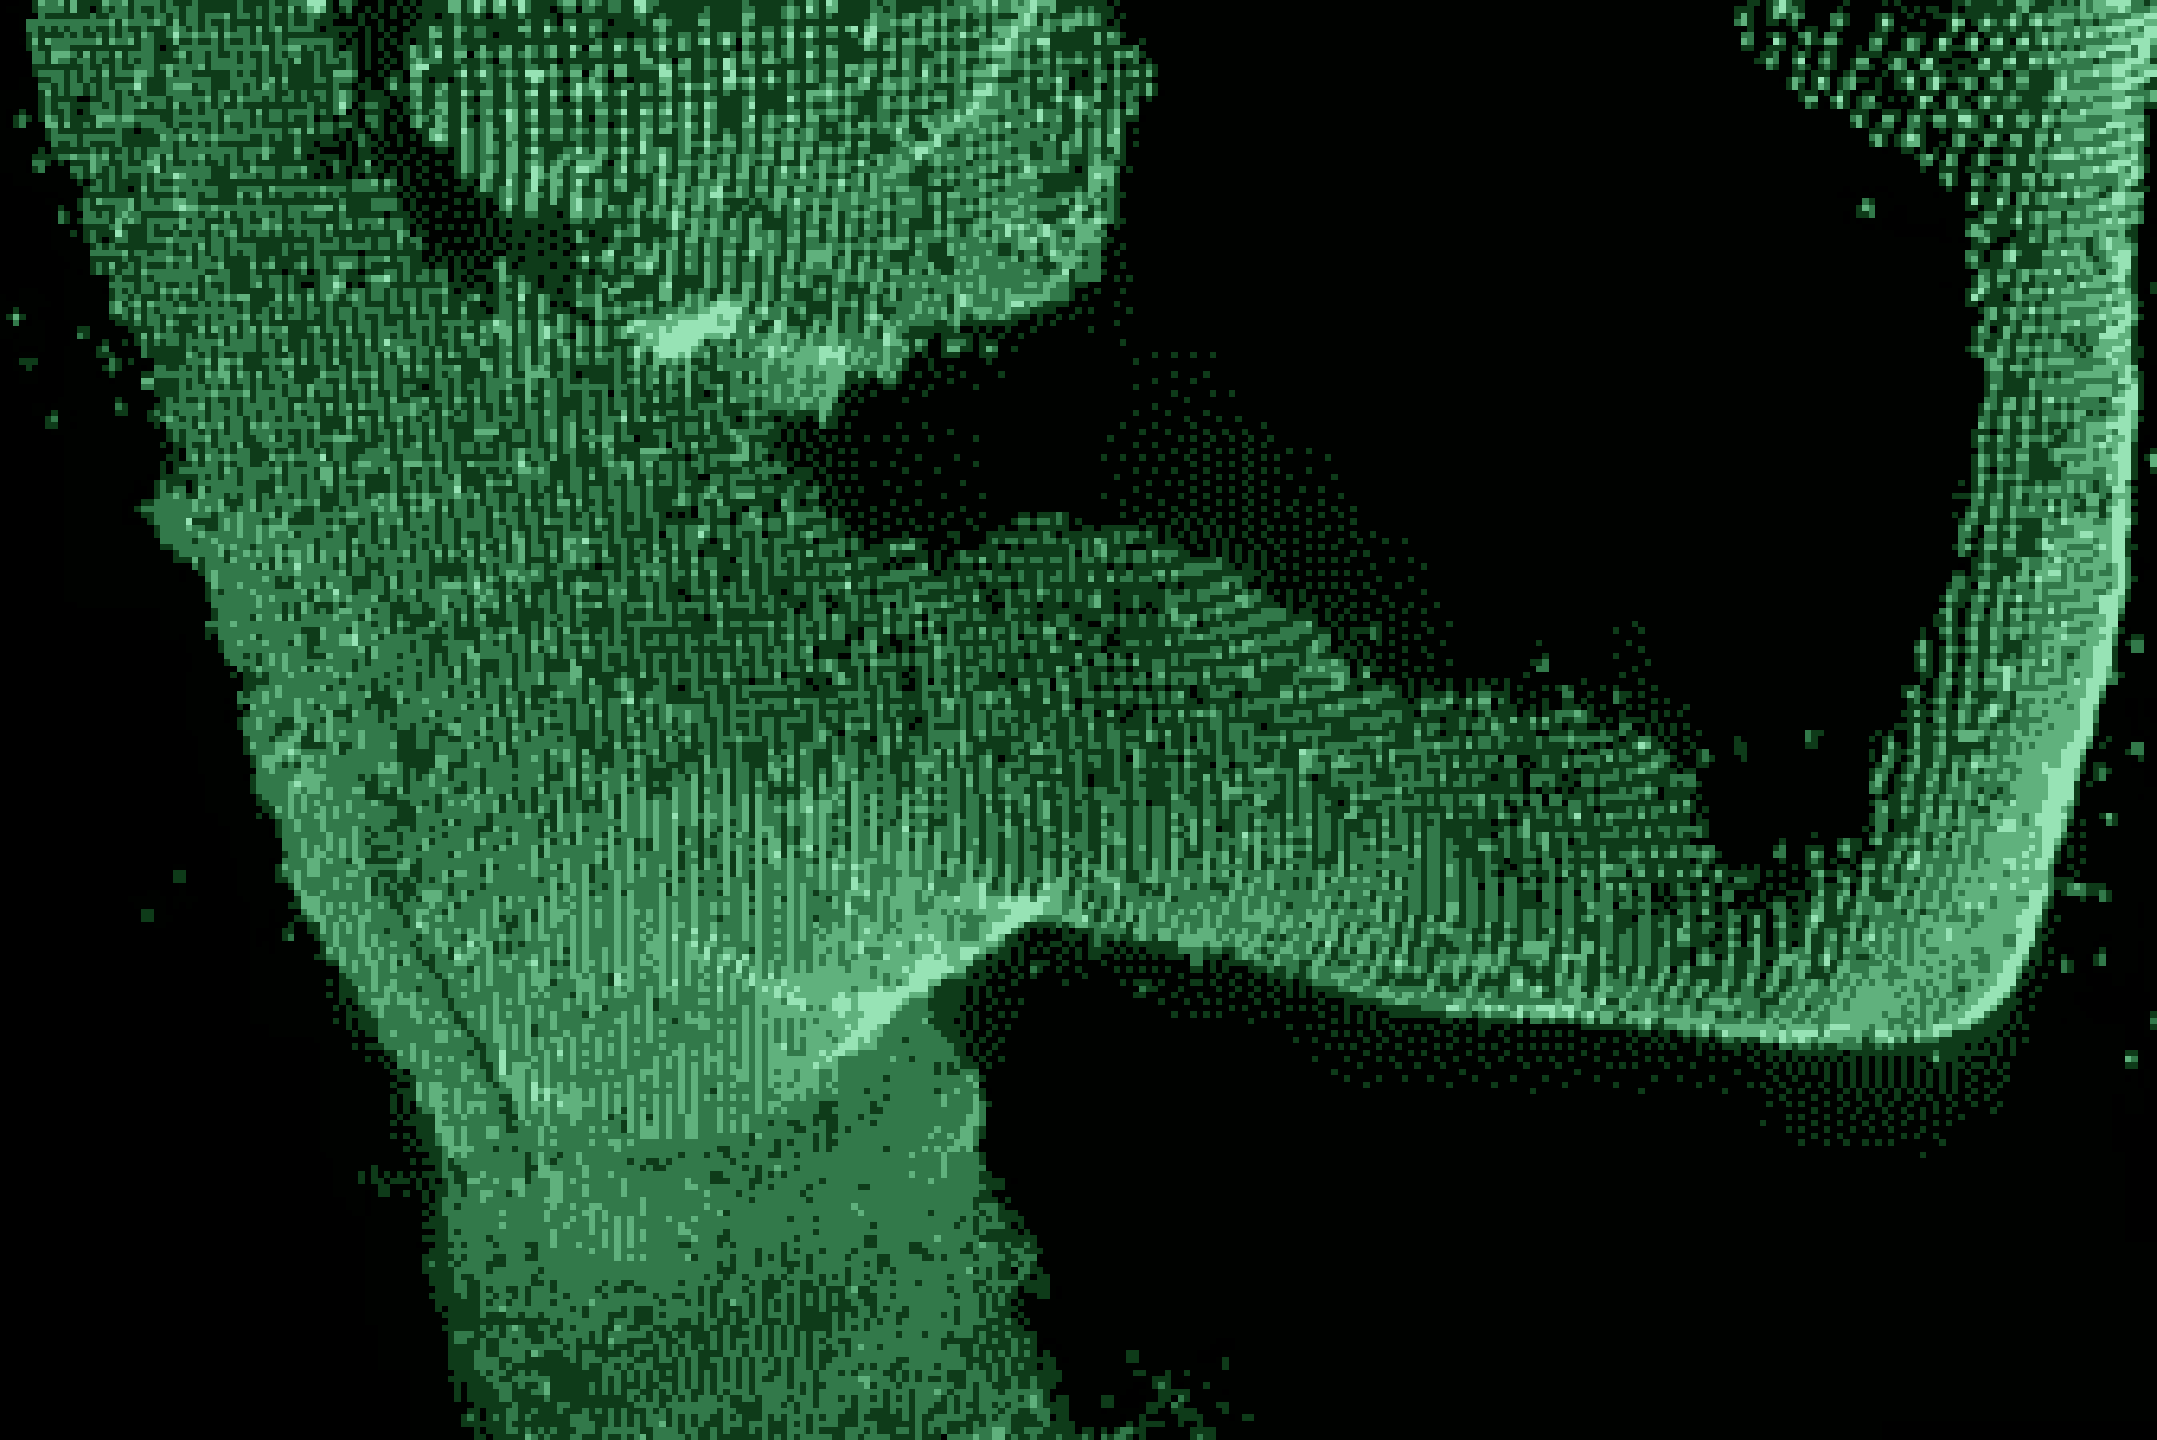

The animation will be created in a similar style to vintage comics and leaning more towards a degree of realism whilst taking inspiration from television series such as Archer, Batman: The Animated Series, Justice League Unlimited and G.I Joe.

The unique selling point for this project is the style combined with the genre of animation along with some of the effects used.
